When & Why Do You Need to Progress Monitor?

- Use graphs for quarterly IEP progress reports (baseline → trend → current level)
- Show “before vs after” an intervention change (new support, schedule change, reinforcement plan)
- Use data to justify: more support, changes to goals/services, or fading support
- Show readiness for increased gen ed time (when the trend is stable and improved)

Who Needs Frequency Data & Graphing?

- ✓ Case managers tracking IEP goals
- ✓ Classroom teachers monitoring Tier 2 data
- ✓ Behavior specialists monitoring intervention response

No More:

- ★ manual graphing & building charts from scratch
- ★ trying to explain raw numbers in meetings
- ★ recreating graphs for every progress report

Q: When Should You Use Frequency Data?

A: Frequency data is best when you need to track how many times a behavior happens.

- Calling out
- Leaving seat
- Hitting or kicking
- Throwing objects
- Verbally saying “no” to an adult request

Best for behaviors that are brief,
observable, and repeatable
throughout the day.

What's Included?

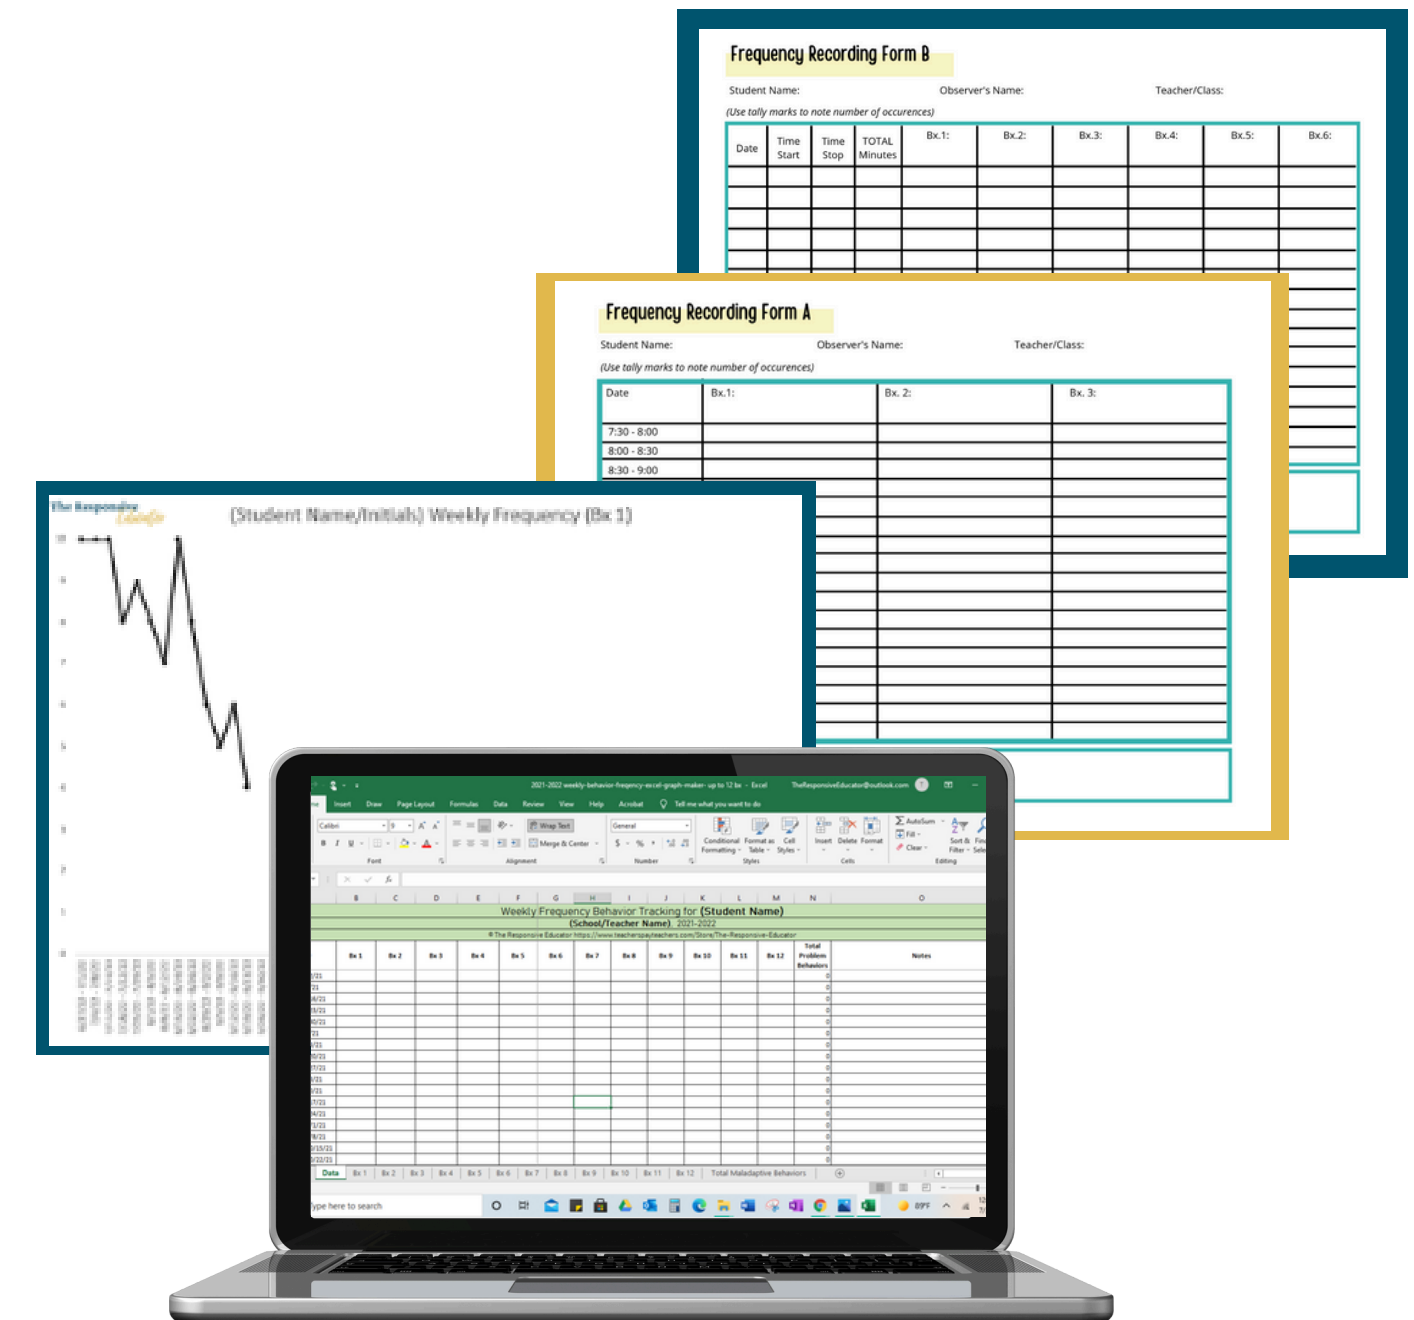

✓ 2 Frequency Recording Forms

- Color & B/W

✓ Excel/Spreadsheet Graphing File (auto-updating)

- Works in both Excel and Google Sheets (phase lines available in Excel only)

✓ How-to directions (the steps shown in this preview)

Also Included: Support & Examples

✓ Example behavior graph with phase lines

See what real progress monitoring graphs look like, including how to mark intervention changes when strategies are adjusted

✓ Data collection method overview

Quick reference explaining when to use different data types and what each one measures best.

✓ Quick Excel tips for easy setup

Step-by-step tips for entering data, viewing graphs, and avoiding common spreadsheet issues.

Q: How Do You Collect Frequency Data?

A: Each time the behavior happens, you tally it on the recording form.

➤ How many times did the student:

- call out
- leave their seat
- hit or kick
- throw objects
- say “No”

Step 2: Choose the Recording Form That Fits Your Needs

Form A

- ✓ Set time blocks show when behaviors happen
- ✓ Track up to 3 behaviors at the same time
- ✓ Great for classroom-wide or scheduled observations

Comments:

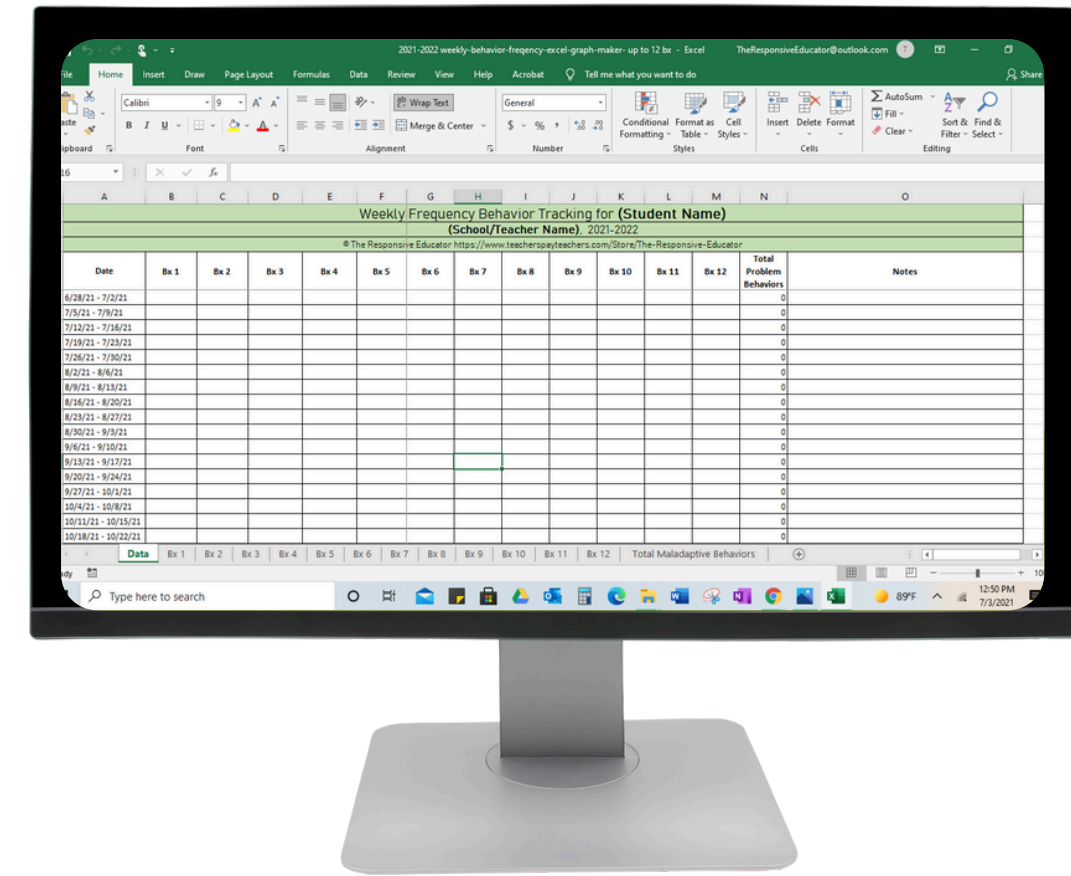

Form B

- ✓ Track up to 6 behaviors at once
- ✓ Add start/stop times for observation periods
- ✓ Helpful for short targeted data sessions or pull-outs

[illegible]

Step 3: Enter Daily Totals into the Spreadsheet

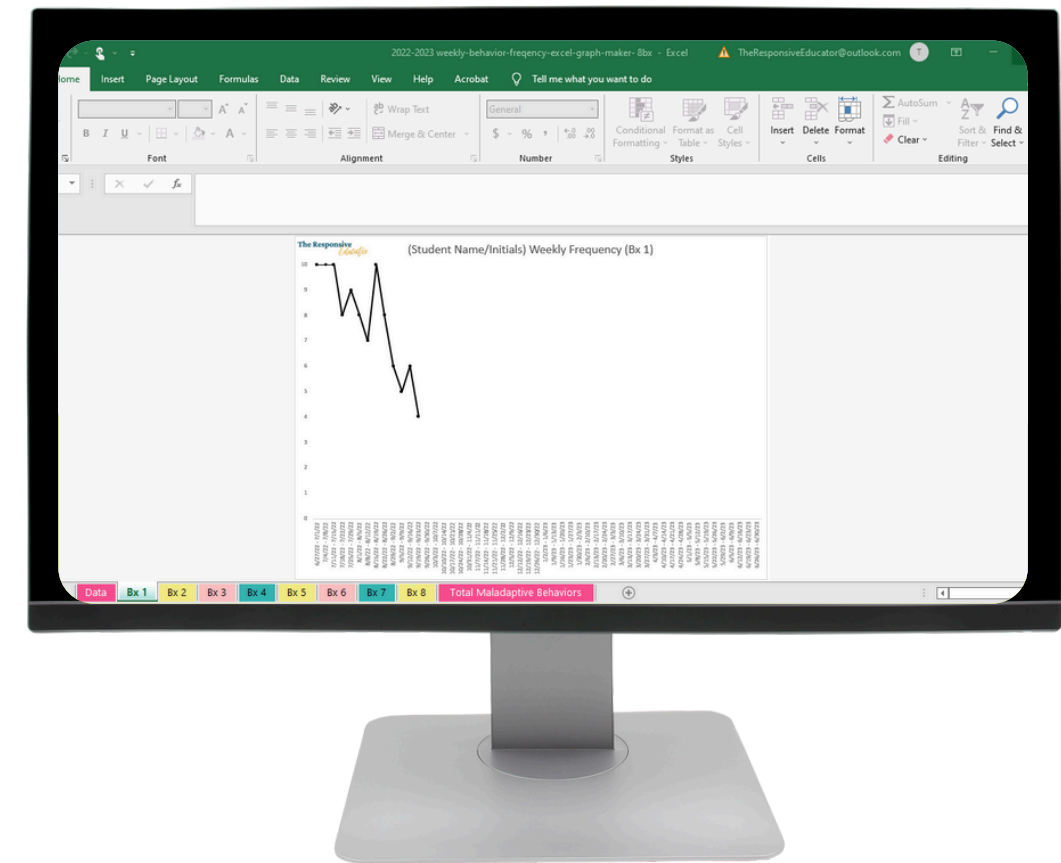

- Enter the total number of occurrences for each behavior each day
- Data is organized by date so you can monitor progress over time
- No formulas required — just type in your counts
- Designed for quick data entry during or after the school day

★ Only totals are entered — the spreadsheet does the rest.

Step 4: View Clear Progress Trends in Graphs

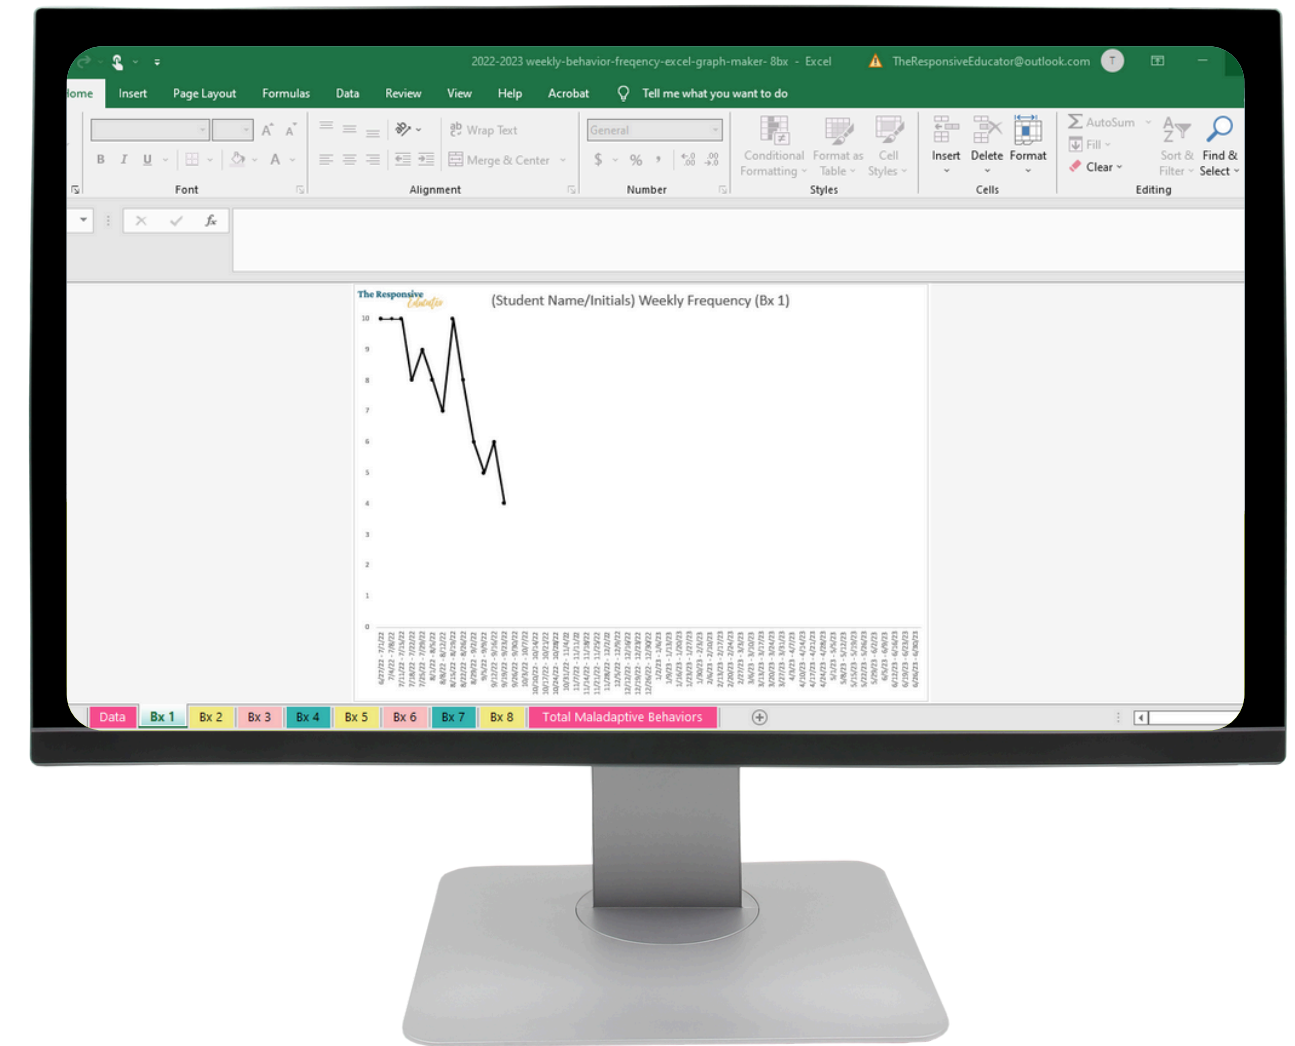

- ✓ Graphs are already set up — no formatting or chart building needed.
- ✓ Graphs update automatically as new data is entered
- ✓ See whether behaviors are increasing, decreasing, or staying the same
- ✓ Use trends to decide whether supports are working or need to be adjusted

★ Clear visuals make progress easier to see and explain.

Step 5A: Use Visual Data to Identify and Explain Patterns

- See patterns that are hard to notice from notes or tallies alone
- Spot trends across days or weeks (increasing, decreasing, or stable)
- Notice changes after supports or interventions are added
- Identify times or sessions with higher or lower behavior rates

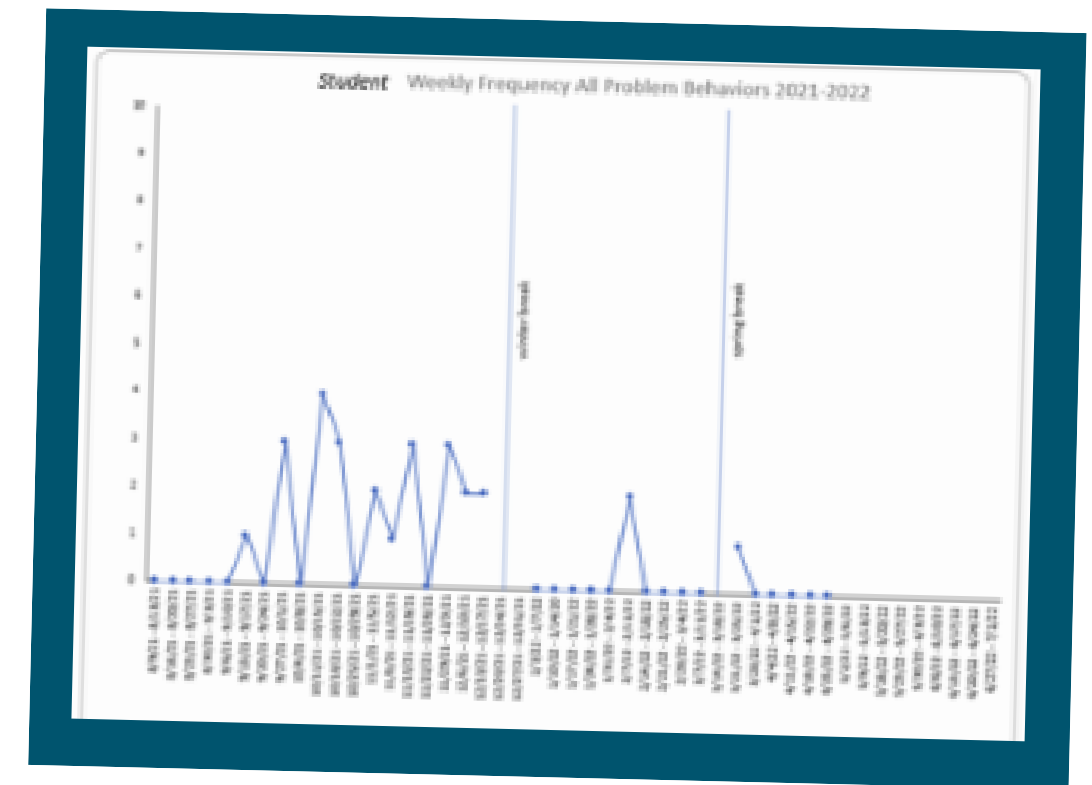

Step 5B: Use Graphs to Monitor Progress on IEP and BIP Goals

- Track whether behavior is improving, staying the same, or increasing over time
- Document progress toward IEP and behavior goals
- Show whether supports and interventions are working
- Provide data to support changes to goals, services, or placement

Step 5C: Use Visual Data in IEP Meetings and Team Discussions

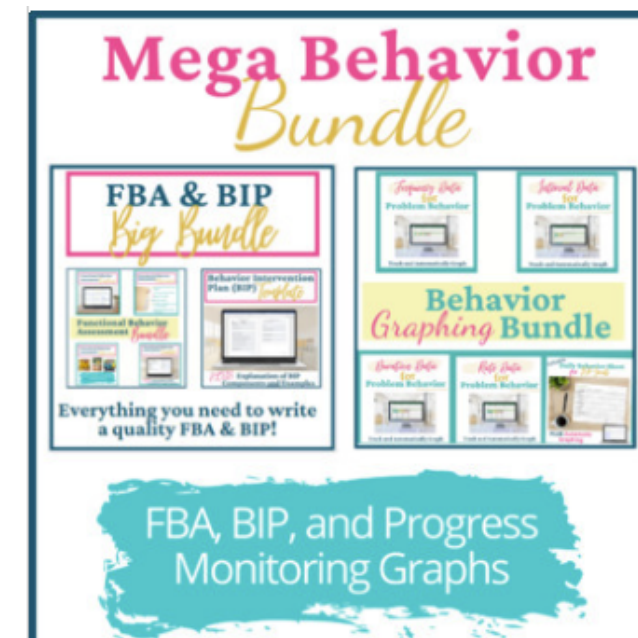

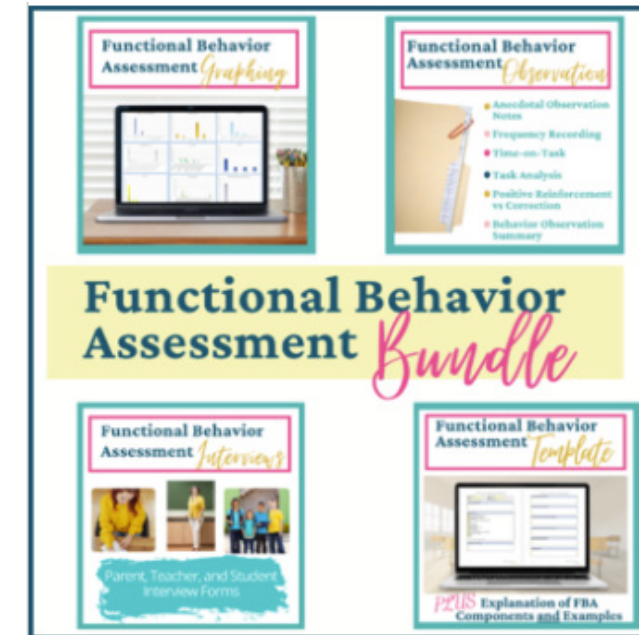

- Help families understand student progress over time, not just isolated incidents
- Share clear updates with counselors, therapists, and support staff
- Guide team decisions about continuing, adjusting, or fading supports
- Increase confidence when explaining data-based recommendations

★ Visual data helps shift conversations from opinions to patterns
