STUDENT BREAK CARDS

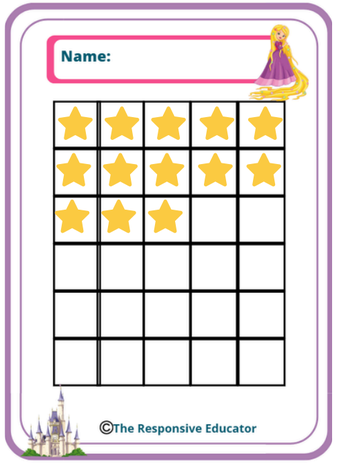

More Than Just a Card to Hand Out

When a student becomes overwhelmed, knowing how to ask for a break can be a skill we need to teach.

Teach and practice the routine—not just how to use the card.

Needing a Break Is Not a Failure

Adults ask for a moment or step away when they need space.

Some students need us to teach them how.

☑ Asking for support is a skill worth teaching.

The Responsive Educator

BEFORE FRUSTRATION ESCALATES

Teach students to

1. Recognize when they need a break.
2. Show or give the card to an adult.
3. Follow the break routine and rejoin.

☑ Practice when calm—not only when overwhelmed.

© TheResponsiveEducator

SOMETIMES ADULTS NOTICE FIRST

Offer a visual cue when a student does not yet recognize or communicate that they need a break.

☑ Offer support— not punishment.

MAKE THE BREAK ROUTINE PREDICTABLE

Teach the student what to expect before, during, and after a break.

How: Request or accept a break.

Where: Go to the agreed place.

What: Use the agreed break options.

When: Recognize when the break is ending.

Return: Rejoin with support as needed.

☑ Model and practice—not just explain.

© TheResponsiveEducator

WON'T STUDENTS USE BREAKS TO AVOID WORK?

- Teach that asking works - When teaching a break request to replace escalation, initially honor each request for the agreed break. Students need to trust that asking gets them support.

- Recognize progress - Several appropriately requested breaks can mean less lost learning time than a meltdown and lengthy recovery.

- Build coping skills at the same time - Teach ways to handle frustration and reinforce staying with manageable tasks. As readiness grows, breaks may become shorter or happen closer to the activity.

© TheResponsiveEducator

Honor the need for a break while building skills to handle challenges.

WHEN IS THE 3-BREAK CARD APPROPRIATE?

© TheResponsiveEducator

Consider it when the student:

- Consistently requests breaks and follows the routine.
- Is developing ways to manage frustration and return to tasks.
- Has a support plan and observation data that support a planned limit.

Set a time frame that fits the student

- Three breaks per hour, half day, or full day—based on individual need.
  Teach when the boxes reset.

Needed breaks remain available after all three boxes are marked.
The adult-offered card can help cue a break when a student is becoming overwhelmed.

REINFORCE THE BREAK ROUTINE

Use the optional progress charts to recognize one skill at a time.

1 Choose a skill, such as:

Asking for a break.

Using a coping strategy.

Rejoining the activity with support.

2 Add a sticker or mark when the student demonstrates the chosen skill.

Recognize successful use of the routine—not going without needed breaks.

Track Behavior Throughout the Day

TRACK BEHAVIOR ACROSS THE DAY - WITH FEEDBACK STUDENTS CAN UNDERSTAND.

A POINT SHEET SHOULD SHOW MORE THAN JUST A GOOD OR DIFFICULT DAY

© TheResponsiveEducator

Recording feedback throughout the day helps teachers and students see:

- Where the student is successful
- Where additional support is needed
- Whether prompting is decreasing over time

Name: Date:

Directions: Demonstrate the positive behavior with two (2) or fewer prompts, color in the crown.

I am working on:

If I get _____(#), then I earn:

Task/Activity	How Did I Do?	# Prompts	Notes
Morning Work		1 2 3	a little chatty, then got to work
Social Skills		1 2 3	great job!
Guided Reading		1 2 3
Spelling		1 2 3
Writing		1 2 3
Lunch		1 2 3
Recess		1 2 3
[illegible]ial Studies		1 2 3
Math Lessons		1 2 3
Math Groups		1 2 3
Dismissal		1 2 3

_____/_____ = I earned _____%

Use specific daily data to guide feedback, support, and next steps.

CHOOSE THE RATING OPTION THAT FITS THE STUDENT

© TheResponsiveEducator

- 3-Prompt Scale: A more attainable starting point for students who need additional support.

- 2-Prompt Scale: Encourages greater independence as prompting decreases.

- Smiley-Face Scale: Provides simple visual feedback for younger students or students who benefit from a less numerical format.

SET UP THE POINT SHEET FOR THE INDIVIDUAL STUDENT

© TheResponsiveEducator

1. Enter the student's name.
2. Define the target behavior.
3. Add periods or activities.
4. Set the daily goal and reward.

Name: Date:

Directions: Demonstrate the positive behavior with two (2) or fewer prompts, color in the crown.

I am working on:

If I get ____(#), then I earn:

Task/Activity	How Did I Do?	# Prompts	Notes
Morning Work		1 2 3	a little chatty, then got to work
Social Skills		1 2 3	great job!
Guided Reading		1 2 3
Spelling		1 2 3
Writing		1 2 3
Lunch		1 2 3
Recess		1 2 3
Social Studies		1 2 3
Math Lessons		1 2 3
Math Groups		1 2 3
Dismissal		1 2 3

____/____ = I earned ____%

Type in the designated fields, or print the sheet and complete it by hand.

DEFINE THE BEHAVIOR BEFORE YOU BEGIN

A point sheet is most useful when the student and adults know exactly what is being monitored.

Instead of:

- "Be kind"
- "Make good choices"

Try:

- "Keep hands to self"
- "Use respectful words"

Clear expectations make the feedback more consistent and the data more useful.

GIVE FEEDBACK THROUGHOUT THE DAY

Complete each section close to the activity - not from memory at the end of the day.

Name: Date:

Directions: Demonstrate the positive behavior with two (2) or fewer prompts, color in the crown.

I am working on:

If I get ____(#), then I earn:

Task/Activity	How Did I Do?	# Prompts	Notes
Morning Work		1 2 3	a little chatty, then got to work
Social Skills		1 2 3	great job!

Writing		1 2 3
Lunch		1 2 3
Recess		1 2 3
Social Studies		1 2 3
Math Lessons		1 2 3
Math Groups		1 2 3
Dismissal		1 2 3

____/____ = I earned ____%

- Notice and name specific successes.
- Record prompts consistently.
- Briefly review what to try next.

The goal is useful feedback and skill growth - not simply earning a daily score.

INVOLVE THE STUDENT IN TRACKING PROGRESS

© TheResponsiveEducator

1. Adult records prompts and feedback.
2. Student colors in image if earned.
3. Review the feedback together throughout the day.
4. At the end of the day, recognize progress and discuss what to try next.

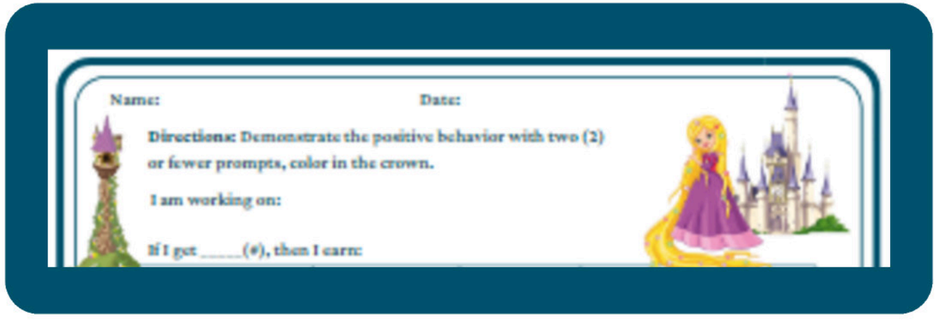

Gradually build the student's ability to notice, evaluate, and adjust their behavior.

SET A GOAL THE STUDENT CAN REALISTICALLY REACH

© TheResponsiveEducator

- Use current performance to choose an achievable percentage goal.
- Reinforcement should recognize progress while the student builds the underlying skill.

- Choose a meaningful reinforcer with the student.
- Explain exactly how the goal is earned.
- Adjust the goal as independence increases.

If the student cannot yet wait until the end of the day, use more frequent reinforcement.

USE THE COMPLETED SHEETS TO LOOK FOR PATTERNS

Review more than the total percentage. Look at where, when, and under what conditions the student needs support.

Across days, the sheets can help you:

- Identify difficult activities or transitions
- Monitor whether prompting decreases
- Share specific information with families
- Decide when goals or supports need adjustment
